DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

See the attachment titled "Recent Statutory Changes to 35 U.S.C. § 102(e)" for the current language that constitutes a rejection under 35 U.S.C. § 102(e).

Claims 1-2 and 6-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Moody et al (6,419,578).

Regarding claims 1-2 and 6-8, Moody teaches a gaming machine controlled by a processor in response to a wager that comprises a display including a video portion and a non-video portion; and a unitary touch screen overlapping both the video portion and the non-video portion, said video portion including player-selectable first indicia selectable via the touch screen and said non-video portion including player-selectable second indicia selectable via said touch screen (Fig. 1, #20, #47, 326, and #28; col. 3, lines 23-32).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 3-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Moody et al.

Regarding claims 3-5, Moody teaches all the limitations of the claims, Moody is silent regarding the features of the non-video portion containing artwork and the illumination of lights behind the artwork to indicate active indicia. The examiner takes official notice that it is well known in gaming machines to include art work that exhibits the name and characters that are used in the gaming. Further the examiner takes official notice that it is well known in the art to illuminate buttons and indicia in slot video machines. It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to employ these features in Moody to entice the player to begin and continue play of the gaming machine. This increases the player's enthusiasm for playing the game.

Examiner's Response to Applicant's Remarks

Applicant argues that Moody does not teach a touch screen for video and non-video portions of a gaming machine display. Applicant recites a portion of column 3 to prove this point. However, the examiner disagrees with Applicant. Moody clearly teaches a video portion (see Fig. 4) that includes the card indicia and buttons located on the display that are non-video (in that they are merely buttons with words on them that allow touch screen input for BET and DRAW functions- See Fig. 1, #47 and #26).

The gaming machine of Moody (see Fig. 1) is similar to Applicant's gaming machine (Fig. 1), in which both have a video gaming portion on top and non-video buttons to control the video gaming beneath the video portion all overlapped by a touch screen to allow convenient input.

Applicant's claim language is extremely broad. Applicant has not included any language in the claims to distinguish what Applicant means by video and non-video- in order to distinguish the prior art of record from the instant claimed invention. From what the examiner has ascertained from the instant disclosure, the gaming machine of Moody (see Fig. 1) is similar to Applicant's gaming machine (Fig. 1), in which both have a video gaming portion on top and non-video buttons to control the video gaming that are located beneath the video portion. Further, both non-video and video portions are overlapped by a single touch screen to allow for convenient input.

The examiner takes official notice that the use of touch screens for video and non-video input is well known in the art.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

Recent Statutory Changes to 35 U.S.C. § 102(e)

On November 2, 2002, President Bush signed the 21st Century Department of Justice Appropriations Authorization Act (H.R. 2215) (Pub. L. 107-273, 116 Stat. 1758 (2002)), which further amended 35 U.S.C. § 102(e), as revised by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) (Pub. L. 106-113, 113 Stat. 1501 (1999)). The revised provisions in 35 U.S.C. § 102(e) are completely retroactive and effective immediately for all applications being examined or patents being reexamined. Until all of the Office's automated systems are updated to reflect the revised statute, citation to the revised statute in Office actions is provided by this attachment. This attachment also substitutes for any citation of the text of 35 U.S.C. § 102(e), if made, in the attached Office action.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraph of 35 U.S.C. § 102 in view of the AIPA and H.R. 2215 that forms the basis for the rejections under this section made in the attached Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

35 U.S.C. § 102(e), as revised by the AIPA and H.R. 2215, applies to all qualifying references, except when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. For such patents, the prior art date is determined under 35 U.S.C. § 102(e) as it existed prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. § 102(e)).

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraph of 35 U.S.C. § 102 prior to the amendment by the AIPA that forms the basis for the rejections under this section made in the attached Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.
